Background:

The Department of Health and the 16 health professions boards and commissions regulate over 250,000 health care professionals in 57 professions. These health care professionals are required to bear the costs of regulating their profession. Credentialing fees and examination fees are established by the Secretary of Health at an amount to cover the estimated costs of licensing and disciplinary activities. These funds are deposited into the Health Professions Account and are spent according to an appropriation request by the Secretary of Health every two years.

Summary of Substitute Bill:

Each health professions board or commission, in consultation with the Secretary of Health (Secretary), may spend funds in the Health Professions Account in excess of the amount required to administer and maintain the program for that specific profession. Funds may be used to support activities affecting members of the profession and its patients, including various aspects of the professional disciplinary process and the recruitment and retention of providers. The Secretary determines whether any profession has funds in excess of the amount required to administer and maintain the program. The Secretary shall make any appropriation requests to spend such funds as a part of its biennial budget request.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: (Health Care) There are millions of dollars in the Health Professions Account that are paid for by health care professionals that they cannot use to improve their profession.

Testimony For: (Appropriations) (In support with amendments) Many of the health professions have gone through the hard experience of having gotten a reduction in their fees and then not long afterwards, because of unexpected occurrences, need to have the fees increased again. The cost of each of the professions is determined by the number of investigations and these can vary from year to year. The intent of this bill is good, but it would be better as a study so all of the health professions can be brought together to come up with a better solution before next year.

Testimony Against: (Health Care) There is no limit on how the boards and commissions may spend the money. In some professions expenditures are outpacing revenues.

Testimony Against: (Appropriations) None.

Persons Testifying: (Health Care) (In support) Representative Campbell, prime sponsor; and Lori Bielinski, Washington State Chiropractic Association.

(Support with concerns) Melanie Stewart, American Association of Massage Therapy, Washington Chapter.

(Oppose unless amended) Bonnie King, Department of Health.

Persons Testifying: (Appropriations) (In support with amendments) Lonnie Johns-Brown, Washington State Society for Clinical Social Work.

Persons Signed In To Testify But Not Testifying: (Health Care) None.
